Dear FVRL Hiring Team,

As a seasoned IT specialist with over five years of support experience, I was excited to learn of an open opportunity for a technical supervisor in a library setting. Specializing in problem solving, maintenance, and design, I have spent the last three years working as the sole IT specialist at the Raritan Public Library in New Jersey.

My time working with the Raritan Public Library has been spent focusing on maintaining hardware and software as well as redesigning and maintaining the library website. It has provided me with daily opportunities in assisting both staff and patrons with support, as they request varying levels of help with a wide array of hardware and software. I also have extensive library data experience, primarily through leading the migration of legacy ILS databases using self-written scripts for processing, manipulating, and deleting data.

I would love to continue my career as an IT technician in a library setting in a wonderful area like Vancouver, and my proficiency in troubleshooting and maintaining technology has prepared me for an opportunity like this. I am eager to hear back from your hiring committee.

Sincerely,
